

CONTRIBUTORS

Ivaylo NAYDENOV

Institute for Historical Studies, Bulgarian Academy of Sciences

ivo_ngdek@abv.bg

Ivaylo Naydenov is Chief Assistant Professor at the Institute for Historical Studies, Bulgarian Academy of Sciences. He also teaches economic history at the Faculty of History – “Sofia University St. Kliment of Ohrid” (at an MA level) and at the University of National and World Economy (at a BA level). His research interests include the economic and social history of the Bulgarian National Revival period (18th-19th century) (particularly trade, commercial contacts between Ottoman Bulgaria and Danubian principalities/Romania, individual entrepreneurs and merchant families, commercial enterprises, entrepreneurial networks, and crafts), the theory of entrepreneurship, and historiography.

Ivaylo NACHEV

Institute of Balkan Studies and Centre of Thracology at the Bulgarian Academy of Sciences

ivailon@abv.bg

Ivaylo Nachev is an assistant professor at the Institute of Balkan Studies and Centre of Thracology at the Bulgarian Academy of Sciences. He has MA degrees in Modern History of Southeast Europe (Sofia University) and European Studies (University of Amsterdam), and obtained his PhD degree at Sofia University with a dissertation on urban modernization in Southeastern Europe. His main research interests are in the economic and social history of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries, urban history, history of science and technology.

Dobrinka PARUSHEVA

Institute of Balkan Studies & Center of Thracology at the Bulgarian Academy of Sciences

dobrinka.parusheva@balkanstudies.bg

Dobrinka Parusheva, PhD, is Professor in Theory and History of Culture at the Institute of Balkan Studies & Center of Thracology at the Bulgarian Academy of Sciences, Sofia and Editor-in-chief of the journal Études balkaniques. She is the author of a book on the social history of governmental elite in Romania and Bulgaria in the second half of the 19th and early 20th century, another book on the Bulgarian political imaginary and its depiction in caricatures, and of numerous articles on the history of political elites, political culture, and political caricature in the Balkans.

Roumiana Il. PRESHLENOVA

Institute of Balkan Studies & Center of Thracology at the Bulgarian Academy of Sciences

roumiana.preshlenova@balkanstudies.bg

Roumiana Il. Preshlenova is a lecturer at Sofia University St Kliment Ohridski, the Training Centre of the Bulgarian Academy of Sciences, and the Foreign Studies School of Osaka University (online). Her research interests include social, economic, and cultural relations between Southeast and Central Europe, as well as digital humanities. She is the author of two monographs, editor of more than ten collected volumes, co-author of albums and more than ten exhibitions, and coordinator of numerous research projects.

Constantin ARDELEANU

Institute for South-East European Studies of the Romanian Academy and the New Europe College – Institute for Advanced Study, Bucharest

ardcons@gmail.com

Constantin Ardeleanu is a Senior Researcher at the Institute for South-East European Studies of the Romanian Academy and the New Europe College – Institute for Advanced Study, Bucharest. His research focuses on the social and economic history of Danubian Europe and the Black Sea region from the eighteenth century onward. He has published extensively on the opening of the Black Sea to international trade, maritime shipping, and the market integration of South-East European port cities. His latest monograph is Steamboat Modernity: Travel, Transport, and Social Transformation on the Lower Danube, 1830–1860 (Central European University Press, 2024).

Metin OMER

Institute for Black Sea Studies at “Ovidius” University of Constanța, Romania

metin.omer@365.univ-ovidius.ro

Metin Omer is a researcher affiliated with the Institute for Black Sea Studies at “Ovidius” University of Constanța and the Institute for South-East European Studies of the Romanian Academy. He earned his PhD. in History from Hacettepe University (Ankara) in 2018. In 2024/2025, he was a fellow of the New Europe College – Odobleja Program. His research focuses on the modern history of the Turkish-Tatar community in Romania, especially in the post-Ottoman period, Romanian–Turkish relations, and the integration of Muslim communities in the Balkans in the 20th and 21st centuries. Dr. Omer is the author and co-author of several volumes on the history and migration of Turks and Tatars from Romania. He has also co-edited important collective volumes addressing Black Sea history, cultural memory, and Ottoman legacies in the Balkans.

Daniel CITIRIGĂ

“Ovidius” University of Constanța, Romania

danicitiriga@yahoo.com

Daniel Citirigă holds a PhD in History (2013) and is Associate Professor at the Faculty of History and Political Science, “Ovidius” University of Constanța. His research areas include the political regimes in interwar Central and Eastern Europe, the intellectuals and politics, and the diplomatic relations between Romania and the states from Central and Eastern Europe. He has published studies and articles in academic journals and among the most relevant volumes are Europa Centrală și tentația federalismului. Istorie și diplomatie în perioada interbelică (Târgoviște: Cetatea de Scaun, 2015), and Diplomația Coroanei. Casa Regală a României în Europa Centrală și de Sud-Est în perioada interbelică (Cluj-Napoca: Academia Română. Centrul de Studii Transilvane, 2015). He has also coedited Intellectualii politici și politica intelectualilor (Târgoviște: Cetatea de Scaun, 2016).

Florin ANGHEL

”Ovidius” University of Constanța, Romania

fl_angel@yahoo.com

Florin Anghel is Professor at the Faculty of History and Political Science, „Ovidius” University of Constanța, with a doctoral thesis on the evolution of bilateral relations between Romania and Poland in the period between the two World Wars. His main research interests include the history of international relations in the 20th century, the evolution of political systems in Central Europe in the interwar period, the state of the Polish and Slovak communities of Romania until 1945.

Marian KARAGYOZOV

Assistant Professor at the Institute of Balkan Studies with the Center of Thracology - Bulgarian Academy of Sciences

marian.karagyzov@balkanstudies.bg

Marian Karagyzov is Assistant Professor at the Institute of Balkan Studies with the Center of Thracology - Bulgarian Academy of Sciences. He holds an LL.M. from the Faculty of Law of Sofia University “St. Kliment Ohridski” and a B.A. in Turkish studies from the Department of Eastern and Mediterranean Studies at New Bulgarian University. He defended his PhD thesis on Turkish foreign policy towards the Middle East at the Institute of Balkan Studies with the Center of Thracology. His three-year posting as a Turkey correspondent for the Bulgarian National Radio and a 6-month specialization at the Social Sciences University of Ankara under the Erasmus+ program allowed him to gain firsthand observations of Turkish society. He has authored a monograph on Turkish foreign policy, as well as scholarly articles and book chapters on Turkish domestic and foreign policy and on the Balkans.

Aneta MIHAYLOVA

Institute of Balkan Studies & Centre of Thracology “Prof. Alexander Fol,” Bulgarian Academy of Sciences

aneta.mihaylova@balkanstudies.bg

Aneta Mihaylova is Assistant Professor at the Institute of Balkan Studies & Centre of Thracology “Prof. Alexander Fol,” Bulgarian Academy of Sciences. Her research focuses on the modern and contemporary history of the Balkans, particularly Romania in the nineteenth to twenty-first centuries. Her scholarly interests include diplomacy, cultural policy, political elites, collective memory, national identity, and Balkan international relations. She has published extensively on Romanian history and foreign policy, as well as on comparative aspects of Romanian and Bulgarian history. She was a research fellow at the New Europe College – Institute for Advanced Study in Bucharest.

Daniel CAIN

Institute for South-East European Studies at the Romanian Academy

dcainbalcani@gmail.com

Daniel Cain is director of the Institute for South-East European Studies at the Romanian Academy. He studied in Bucharest and Sofia; he holds a PhD in history, having written a thesis on Romanian-Bulgarian diplomatic relations in the early 20th century. He is an associate lecturer at the University of Bucharest, where he teaches a course on the history of the Balkans (19th–21st centuries); he is also chair of the Romanian delegation to the Romanian-Bulgarian Joint Commission on History. He is the author and editor of several books and studies on the situation in South-Eastern Europe at the beginning of the 20th century.

Emanuel PLOPEANU

“Ovidius” University of Constanța, Romania

emanuel.plopeanu@365.univ-ovidius.ro

Emanuel Plopeanu is an associate professor, PhD, at the “Ovidius” University of Constanța, Faculty of History and Political Science. His areas of interest include United States policy towards South-East Europe in the 20th century, Romanian-Turkish relations in the same period, Dobrudja integration into the Romanian state and the relations between communities. All these topics were presented in national and international conferences and made the object of published articles and books.

Vojislav SARAKINSKI

Saints “Cyril and Methodius” University, Republic of North Macedonia

polemokles@fzf.ukim.edu.mk

Vojislav Sarakinski is Professor of Ancient History at the Ss Cyril and Methodius University in Skopje. His research focuses on the political and cultural history of the ancient Balkans, especially ancient Macedonia and its relations with the Greek and Persian worlds. His wider interests include the Bronze Age Balkans, Indo-European studies, comparative linguistics, ancient scripts, historical sources, and the transmission of knowledge in antiquity. He also works on the digitisation, cataloguing, and preservation of older and less accessible scholarship. His teaching covers the ancient Near East, ancient Greece, ancient Macedonia, and the study of ancient literary sources and traditions.

Ivelin IVANOV

St. Cyril and St. Methodius University of Veliko Tarnovo, Bulgaria

i.ivanov@ts.uni-vt.bg

Ivelin Ivanov is Professor and Doctor of Sciences (DsC) at the Faculty of History, St. Cyril and St. Methodius University of Veliko Tarnovo, Bulgaria. His research focuses on the history of war and peace in medieval Europe. His principal areas of research include the concepts of war and peace in the Scandinavian sagas, the visual representations of war and peace in illuminated manuscripts, and the political and military history of the medieval Balkans and Livonia in the thirteenth century. He is the author of several monographs and numerous scholarly articles on these subjects, published in both Bulgarian and English.

Taras VINTSKOVSKYI

“I. I. Mechnikov” National University, Odesa, Ukraine

taras.ist@gmail.com

Taras Vintskovskiy is Professor of the Department of History of Ukraine and special historical disciplines, Faculty of History and Philosophy, Odesa “I. I. Mechnikov” National University, Ukraine. Specialist in the history of Southern Ukraine in the first half of the twentieth century, monographs and scientific studies published in Ukraine and abroad.

Andrii IVANCHENKO

“I. I. Mechnikov” National University, Odesa, Ukraine

andrey.ivanchenko.86@gmail.com

Andrii Ivanchenko is Associate Professor at the Department of Foreign Languages for Specific Purposes, Faculty of Romance and Germanic Philology, Odesa “I. I. Mechnikov” National University, Ukraine. Author of articles on linguistics and other topics published in Ukraine and abroad.

Dumitru LISNIC

“Ioan Petru Culianu” Institute for Religious Studies, “George Emil Palade” University of Medicine, Pharmacy, Science, and Technology of Târgu Mureș, Romania

dumitru1999.lisnic@gmail.com

Dumitru Lisnic is a researcher at the “Ioan Petru Culianu” Institute for Religious Studies, “George Emil Palade” University of Medicine, Pharmacy, Science, and Technology of Târgu Mureș, Romania. He received a PhD in the Study of Religions from University College Cork in 2023 and a second PhD in History from “Alexandru Ioan Cuza” University of Iași in 2019. His research interests include the history of the Soviet Union and Eastern Europe, church–state relations in the twentieth century, and the history of ethno-religious minorities in the region.

Georgiana ȚĂRANU

“Ovidius” University of Constanța, Romania

georgianataranu87@gmail.com

Georgiana Țăranu holds a BA in History and Political Sciences from the Faculty of History and Political Science, “Ovidius” University of Constanța. She earned her PhD in History from the Romanian Academy’s “N. Iorga” Institute of History (Bucharest). She has published a monograph (Nicolae Iorga și seducția fascismului italian, Humanitas, 2025), several book chapters and articles in academic publications in Turkey, Poland and Greece. She has also coordinated two edited volumes (Mioara Anton, Georgiana Țăranu, coord., În căutarea celui alt: diplomatie, război, memorie. In Honorem Ileana Căzan. Volum omagial, Cetatea de Scaun, Târgoviște, 2024; Daniel Citișigă, Georgiana Țăranu, and Adrian-Alexandru Herța, eds., Intellectuali politici și politica intelectualilor, Târgoviște: Editura Cetatea de Scaun, 2016). Her current research interests are: Nicolae Iorga’s political biography, Romanian nationalism, Italian fascism, fascist propaganda in interwar Romania, the relationship between intellectuals and totalitarianism. Georgiana Țăranu holds the position of lecturer at the Faculty of History and Political Sciences, “Ovidius” University of Constanța.

Adrian-Alexandru HERȚA

“Ovidius” University of Constanța, Romania

adrian_hertza@yahoo.com

Adrian-Alexandru Herța has a PhD. in History. He is a Teaching Assistant at the Faculty of History and Political Science, “Ovidius” University of Constanța. His research interests center on the political history of the 20th century. Most of his scientific writings aim to highlight the links between different electoral systems of Modern Europe. Some of his publications are: “Inside the Cobweb of Calculations, Coefficients, Hidden Purposes and Fears: Romanian Electoral Law from March 1926 in the View of the Main Political Parties”, 4th International Multidisciplinary Scientific Conference on Social Sciences & Arts (SGEM 2017), Conference Proceedings, Book 1 (Modern Science), Volume II (Political Sciences & Law): 101-107. “Two Theoretical Paths and an Administrative Failure: Organizing Romanian Statistical Services in 1920’s”, 4th International Multidisciplinary Scientific Conference on Social Sciences & Arts (SGEM 2017), Conference Proceedings, Book 1 (Modern Science), Volume II (Political Sciences & Law): 301-306. Adrian-Alexandru Herța, „Tradiția ca element de fractură. Construcția celui dintâi sistem electoral al României Mari”, in Intelectualii politici și politica intelectualilor, coords. Daniel Citirigă, Georgiana Țăranu, and Adrian-Alexandru Herța (Târgoviște: Editura Cetatea de Scaun, 2016), 378-398.

Gabriel Stelian MANEA

”Ovidius” University of Constanța, Romania

gabriel-stelian.manea@365.univ-ovidius.ro

Gabriel Stelian Manea is a lecturer, PhD, at the “Ovidius” University of Constanța, Faculty of History and Political Science. His areas of interest include the relationship between the church and communist regimes, spiritual and cultural anti-communist dissent, and the history of the Romanian Orthodox Church during the communist period.

Florin ANGHEL

”Ovidius” University of Constanța, Romania

fl_angel@yahoo.com

Florin Anghel is Professor at the Faculty of History and Political Science, „Ovidius” University of Constanța, with a doctoral thesis on the evolution of bilateral relations between Romania and Poland in the period between the two World Wars. His main research interests include the history of international relations in the 20th century, the evolution of political systems in Central Europe in the interwar period, the state of the Polish and Slovak communities of Romania until 1945.

Metin OMER

Institute for Black Sea Studies at “Ovidius” University of Constanța, Romania

metin.omer@365.univ-ovidius.ro

Metin Omer is a researcher affiliated with the Institute for Black Sea Studies at “Ovidius” University of Constanța and the Institute for South-East European Studies of the Romanian Academy. He earned his PhD. in History from Hacettepe University (Ankara) in 2018. In 2024/2025, he was a fellow of the New Europe College – Odobleja Program. His research focuses on the modern history of the Turkish-Tatar community in Romania, especially in the post-Ottoman period, Romanian–Turkish relations, and the integration of Muslim communities in the Balkans in the 20th and 21st centuries. Dr. Omer is the author and co-author of several volumes on the history and migration of Turks and Tatars from Romania. He has also co-edited important collective volumes addressing Black Sea history, cultural memory, and Ottoman legacies in the Balkans.

Gabriel Stelian MANEA

”Ovidius” University of Constanța, Romania

gabriel-stelian.manea@365.univ-ovidius.ro

Gabriel Stelian Manea is a lecturer, PhD, at the “Ovidius” University of Constanța, Faculty of History and Political Science. His areas of interest include the relationship between the church and communist regimes, spiritual and cultural anti-communist dissent, and the history of the Romanian Orthodox Church during the communist period.

Emanuel PLOPEANU

”Ovidius” University of Constanța, Romania

emanuel.plopeanu@365.univ-ovidius.ro

Emanuel Plopeanu is an associate professor, PhD, at the "Ovidius" University of Constanta, Faculty of History and Political Science. His areas of interest include United States policy towards the South-East Europe in the 20th century, Romanian - Turkish relations in the same period, Dobruja integration into Romanian state and the relations between communities. All these topics was presented in national and international conferences and make the object of published articles and books.